

M'KINLEY HAS 277 TO BRYAN'S 170

"DOUBTFUL" STATES SAID TO BE REPUBLICAN.

With Them the Figures Will Be as Above Stated, Without Them, the Ohioan Will Have 257 and Bryan
170—Democrats All But Concede Defeat.

McKinley claims were strengthened by the figures that came in today. At 3 o'clock this afternoon tables in national headquarters showed 264 electoral votes for McKinley. The Milwaukee Evening Wisconsin's estimate
at 3 p. m. was 277 electoral votes for McKinley. This includes Kentucky,
California, West Virginia, Delaware
and North and South Dakota.

Kentucky is claimed by the democratic state central committee by 233
votes. The official count will be necessary.

Wisconsin gives McKinley a plurality of 102,000 according to the figures
received in Milwaukee up to 3 p. m.

Chicago, Nov. 5.—Chairman Jones
keeps up the farce, in spite of the emphatic declarations made by his lieutenants.
He said at 4 o'clock this afternoon that the indications still pointed to Bryan's election. "I believe," he said, "that in every doubtful state an examination of the ballots
should be insisted upon by democrats."

Kentucky for Bryan By 252
Louisville, Ky., Nov. 5, 4 p. m.—At the Associated Press office this afternoon returns from every county in Kentucky showed a Bryan plurality of 252.

The following table is the Evening Wisconsin's estimate with the three states claimed but not known to be for McKinley—Kentucky,
North Dakota and South Dakota,—
in the doubtful column:

Democratic national leaders practically concede McKinley's election
last night. At 9 o'clock Chairman Jones gave out a signed statement in which he maintained that Bryan would be elected. At 11 o'clock, just before he went to bed, he expressed regret at having made the statement public.
The democratic leaders admitted that they could not win without California
and West Virginia and included in the admission that things looked bad for
the silver men in these states.

Late last night a telegram was received by the democrats from National Committeeman O'Brien of Minnesota which said that the state had gone for McKinley. The silver leaders had been disputing the claims of the republicans to Minnesota. Chairman Jones also learned that the chairman of the West Virginia democratic state committee had conceded the success of the McKinley electors in that state. These two messages, together with a message from J. J. Dwyer, the state chairman of California, that that
state was safe for the republicans,
about ended the claims of confidence by the democrats. Shortly after midnight the headquarters were deserted by the watchmen.

Democrats Concede Indiana.

Indianapolis, Ind., Nov. 5.—Four hundred out of the 3,115 precincts in Indiana outside of Marion county Indianapolis show a net republican gain
of 4,179; a little over ten to a precinct.
This ratio of republican gain, if it continues, will give the state to McKinley by over 20,000. With such a heavy republican vote over the state the republicans have probably all the congressional candidates. The republicans

will have a majority in the legislature
which the republican managers place
at forty-two on joint ballot.

The democratic state committee at 11 o'clock last night conceded Indiana to McKinley by 23,000. The concession was not made until every county had been heard from.

Clean Sweep in Wisconsin.

Milwaukee, Wis., Nov. 5.—The republicans have taken everything in sight by overwhelming majorities.
With eight counties to hear from Mc-Kinley's plurality is 85,000 and his total will not fall much below 100,000.
The republicans have elected all of the ten congressmen. In every senatorial district where there was an election the republicans were victorious, and, with the democratic hold-overs, the senate
will stand, republicans 29, democrats 4.
In the assembly it appears that the republicans have elected 88 and the democrats 12. On joint ballot this will give the republicans a majority of 101.

Excitement in Baltimore.

Baltimore, Md., Nov. 5.—A local democratic organization last night posted a telegram purporting to come from United States Senator Gorman, in Washington, stating that Bryan had 229 electoral votes, and that he was elected beyond a doubt. In less than half an hour Baltimore street, the principal avenue in the city, was crowded with a mob of howling men,
shouting for Bryan, and impeding the progress of citizens, apparently defiant
of the police. Parades were formed,
and it was not until long after midnight that the excitement was allayed
and the paraders were induced to disperse.

Minnesota for Gold 40,000.

St. Paul, Minn., Nov. 5.—Practically complete returns from fifty-one of the eighty-one counties in Minnesota give Clough, rep., for governor, 2,046 less than Lind, fusion candidate, and in the remaining counties four years ago the republican vote about balanced that of the combined democrats and populists.
The seven congressional districts will be represented by republicans. At midnight the figures indicate that Lind,
pop., has carried the state for governor
by about 1,500. It will take the official count to settle who is elected.

Late Results in Michigan.

Detroit, Mich., Nov. 5.—McKinley's plurality in the state appears to be about 40,000. Pingree's plurality for governor is about 56,000, and increasing as the incoming returns increase the reliability of the estimates made. Latest returns from the Third congressional district, where Congressman Milne's defeat was conceded last night, will be much closer than expected. He has carried by about 3,000 Kalamazoo,
which was given to Todd, and also Hillsdale by 570. Milne is 270 ahead, with Calhoun still to hear from. The Eighth district is still doubtful.

Bryan Gets Arkansas by 25,000.

Little Rock, Ark., Nov. 5.—The fusion ticket in Arkansas was elected by a majority of from 25,000 to 30,000. Returns from over the state indicate that about the usual vote was polled. The democratic candidates for congress
were all elected by good majorities. It will be several days before all the returns are in from the back counties,
but from the figures at hand the democratic majority is conservatively estimated at 25,000. The three populists on the ticket ran about 2,000 behind the democrats, which about represents the gold standard strength in the state.

North Dakota Is for Gold.

Bismarck, N. D., Nov. 5.—Latest returns from this state show no change
from the estimates made. McKinley and the republican ticket carry the state by 5,000 majority. Johnson, rep., is elected congressman by about the same majority. Eight hundred out of 1,213 precincts give McKinley 3,800
majority. Chairman Cooper of the republican state committee wired Gov-elect Briggs congratulating him on his election and stating that his majority was at least 5,000. The legislature is overwhelmingly republican.

No Doubt About West Virginia.

Wheeling, W. Va., Nov. 5.—Incomplete returns received during the day
continue to show republican gains, and there is no reason to change last night's figures of 15,000 plurality. All four republican candidates for congress
are undoubtedly elected by increased majorities. Atkinson, rep., for governor, and the entire republican state
ticket are elected, and both branches of the legislature are republican. The gold democrats generally voted the republican ticket.

North Carolina for Bryan.

Washington, Nov. 5.—The Associated press has received the following dispatch from Clement A. Maney, chairman of the state democratic committee
of North Carolina, at Raleigh: "Bryan has carried this state by 20,000. Silver congressmen are elected in the 1st, 3d,
4th, 5th, 6th, 7th and 8th districts.
The 2d and 9th are in doubt. The contest over the governorship is very close,
with chances favoring Watson, the democratic nominee. The legislature will probably be anti-democratic by a small majority."

Bryan Sure of Nebraska.

Omaha, Neb., Nov. 5.—Bryan has carried Nebraska by at least 5,000 majority. Holcomb, the governor, and the whole democratic-popu-
list state and legislative tickets

are elected. Mercer, rep., Second district, pulled through, his majority over Duffie being 1,700, and Strode, rep.,
First district, was elected by about 500.
Maxwell, dem.-pop., Third district;
Stark, dem.-pop., Fourth district; Sut-
terland, dem.-pop., Fifth district, and Greene, dem.-pop., Sixth district, are elected.

No Gold Men Win in Idaho.

Boise City, Idaho, Nov. 5.—As yet
only incomplete returns are received from Idaho, and these from only a few counties. Bryan will carry the state by a large majority. The total gold vote will not exceed 6,000. Indications are now that it will be less than 4,000.
The legislature ticket is much mixed,
and at present all estimates are mere guesses. At any rate, no gold man will be returned from Idaho. The Mc-Kinleyites will not elect a single man
on the state ticket.

Both Claim South Dakota.

Sioux Falls, S. D., Nov. 5.—Returns
indicate that Bryan has carried the state by from 3,500 to 5,000 majority. The returns so far show a vote of 60,000 in thirty-two counties, which gives Bryan
a majority of 1,504. There are about 15,000 more votes to be counted. These counties are all expected to, and should,
give Bryan a majority of 1,000 at least. The republican committee claims the state will give McKinley
1,200 when these counties are in.

Illinois Legislature.

Chicago, Nov. 5.—The republicans
will have a majority on joint ballot in the general assembly that meets at Springfield next January larger than it has had for many years. The senate is easily two-thirds republican, and the republican majority in the house approximates twenty. Outside Cook county the combination of silver democrats and populists seems to have held its own.

Silver Men Carry Kansas.

Topeka, Kas., Nov. 5.—The best information indicates that Bryan and Leedy (fusion) have carried Kansas by at least 7,000. The legislature on joint ballot appears to be two-thirds fusion.
The republican central committee
claims that Gov. Morrill and the legislature will pull through, but by small margins. Chairman Breidenbach, pop., claims 108 of the 165 members of the senate and house.

Iowa Conceded for McKinley.

Des Moines, Iowa, Nov. 5.—Complete returns from fifty-five counties out of ninety-nine show a net gain per county
of 550 votes, which will give a gain over Drake's vote of last year of 50,000.
Drake had 27,000 last year, and the republican managers claim that McKin-ley's majority in this state will not fall
below 80,000, but conservative men put it down at about 60,000. Every republican congressman is elected, but with reduced majorities.

Silver Safe in Washington.

Seattle, Wash., Nov. 5.—In 360 precincts out of 1,100 in the state McKinley receives 17,704; Bryan, 23,461. This is about one-half of the vote of the state.
It is impossible at this hour to give any figures on party strength in Washington's legislature, but it is certain that the fusionists will have good majorities. The national and state tickets are also fusion by large majorities.

Utah Elects a Senator.

Salt Lake, Utah, Nov. 5.—Returns
have been received from about half the precincts in Salt Lake county, showing the democratic majority in the county and city to be 4,000. King, dem., for congress, is elected, and Bryan's majority will be about the same as heretofore estimated. The legislature is democratic, and will elect a successor to Senator Brown in the United States Senate.

McKinley Carries Delaware.

Wilmington, Del., Nov. 5.—Returns
from Delaware are still incomplete in detail, but enough is known to accurately state the result. McKinley carries the state by 1,500 to 1,800 majority.
He may lose one elector, James G.
Shaw, Sr., whose name was printed
without the affix of "Sr." on the regular republican ticket, but it is conceded
that the courts will correct this irregularity if the issue is raised.

Ohio Gives McKinley 67,552.

Columbus, O., Nov. 5.—Careful estimates from county chairmen, received at republican headquarters, give Mc-Kinley a plurality of 67,552 in eighty-one of the eighty-eight counties of the state. The democrats will gain three and possibly four congressmen. The present delegation stands 19 to 2, the republicans gaining by a landslide two years ago.

Bryan Has Won Missouri.

St. Louis, Mo., Nov. 5.—According to the latest returns, there will be in the lower house eighty-one democrats,
twenty-six republicans, twelve popu-
lists, ten doubtful, eleven not heard from. Complete returns as to the state have not yet been received, but the republicans have conceded the state to Bryan.

Gold in California.

San Francisco, Cal., Nov. 5.—The
last tabulations leave no reasonable doubt that McKinley has carried the state by at least 5,000. The legislature
also appears to be republican by nearly two-thirds majority. From returns at hand it seems certain that the constitutional amendment providing for

woman's suffrage has been defeated by a large majority.

Bryan's Margin in Wyoming.

Cheyenne, Wyo., Nov. 5.—Seventy-six precincts in 297 in Wyoming give McKinley 4,178, Bryan 4,317, a democratic gain of 614. The county vote is coming in slowly and decreases the democratic percentage of gains, and the indications are that the plurality
for Bryan will not exceed 500, and that the republicans elect their congressman
and state ticket.

Virginia for Bryan by 25,000.

Richmond, Va., Nov. 5.—It is impossible to ascertain accurately the democratic majority in Virginia. Returns are slow, but the democrats have not less than 25,000 plurality, and by the last advice take all the congressional districts save the 9th and 10th, which are republican. These districts are in the Shenandoah valley and southwestern part of the state.

Montana 20,000 for Bryan.

Helena, Mont., Nov. 5.—Returns indicate a heavy majority for Bryan. Out of approximately 540 precincts in Montana returns have been received from only 140. These give Bryan in round numbers, 25,000 votes and McKinley
only about 5,000. As the returns now stand, Bryan has about 20,000 majority,
and more than half the vote of the state is accounted for.

Kentucky Claims Grow Less.

Louisville, Ky., Nov. 6.—Kentucky
seems safe for McKinley, though the majority is close. In 1,265 precincts out of 1,663, his plurality is 3,506. Taking the estimate of the missing counties made several days ago by Chairman Sommers of the democratic committee, the McKinley majority of the missing vote is 1,238. This would give the state to McKinley by 4,744.

Populists Control Washington Legislature.

Tacoma, Wash., Nov. 5.—The straight-out populists will control the next legislature in this state, and Richard Winsor of Seattle will probably succeed Watson C. Squire as United States senator.

Col. Breckinridge Defeated.

Lexington, Ky., Nov. 5.—Col. Breckinridge is defeated for congress in the Ashland district by the silver democrat, Evan Settle, by 1,500 majority.
The latest returns affirm the statement that the Kentucky legislature will be republican on joint ballot, and will elect a republican United States senator to succeed Blackburn.

Republicans Take Oregon.

Portland, Ore., Nov. 5.—Practically complete returns from the twenty-six
out of the thirty-two counties in Oregon give McKinley 34,954, Bryan 31,
700; McKinley's majority in the state,
3,243. Estimated returns from the other six counties, which are small, do not materially alter these figures.

Late Ill. n Returns.

Chicago, Nov. 5.—Reports received at the republican and silver democratic state headquarters from county committeemen indicate McKinley's plurality in the state is 138,716. John R. Tanner's plurality, from these reports is 112,845, indicating that he ran 25,871
votes behind the head of the ticket in the entire state.

Bryan Takes Nevada by 7,000.

Reno, Nev., Nov. 5.—Bryan has carried Nevada by 7,000. Newlands, silverite for congress, is elected by an overwhelming majority. Complete returns from fifty-five precincts out of 154 give McKinley 917, Bryan and Sewell 3,478 and Bryan and Watson 195.

Texas for Bryan by 100,000.

Dallas, Tex., Nov. 5.—About half the counties in the state have been heard from officially, and approximately Bryan
and Sewall's plurality is placed at 100,000. Culberson and the state democratic ticket will beat Kearby and the populist state ticket by 75,000.

Montana Gives Bryan 26,000.

Helena, Mont., Nov. 5.—Returns from two-thirds of the precincts show that Bryan carried the state by 26,000, or at least 6,000 more than the most sanguine expectations of the democrats before election. The entire democratic ticket is elected.

Pennsylvania Gives 295,550.

Philadelphia, Pa., Nov. 5.—Complete returns from all but a few of the sixty-seven counties in Pennsylvania
give McKinley a plurality of 295,550.
It is not believed that the official count
will show much variation from these figures.

Will Not Move Missouri Capital.

Jefferson City, Mo., Nov. 5.—Indications point to the defeat of the constitutional amendment to move the capital from Jefferson City to Sedalia by 75,000 to 100,000 votes.

SENATE MAY BE A TIE.

Present indications as to the Complexion of Congress.

Washington, Nov. 5.—Completed returns will be necessary to decide the question of whether the republicans will have control of the senate. From present appearances they will have exactly half the membership of the upper house of congress, with thirty-
two democrats and thirteen independents, leaving the decision to the vice-president. This is on the assumption that rep. like Pettigrew, Carter, Mantle and Dubois remain outside, whereas

they are likely to act with the republicans except on financial questions,
and perhaps even then.

The membership of the house, according to returns up to the hour of going to press, will be made up of 209
republicans, 131 democrats and 17 independents.

Sound money has a clear majority in both branches of congress, there being enough sound money democrats in the senate to put an end to all financial foolishness in that body after March 4
next.

MR. BRYAN STILL HOPES.

Will Not Give Up Until the Entire Vote
Is Counted.

Lincoln, Neb., Nov. 5.—Mr. Bryan
last night gave out the following in reply to numerous telegrams from all parts of the country:

"The democratic national committee
claims enough states to give a majority in the electoral college, but the vote is very close in several of the states and the result cannot be known positively until the entire vote is counted. In all close contests it is wise for both sides
to watch the returns to guard against the possibility of mistake, intentional
or unintentional."

Mr. Bryan dictated this statement to a typewriter, but when pressed for something more for the press declined to yield, saying that he could give no
utterance to his opinion as to the result
or outline his intentions until the outcome should be definitely known.

Pleases the Administration.

Washington, Nov. 6.—There is an air
of unconcealed satisfaction in administration circles here over the results of the election, yet this was tempered in many instances with pity. From the president in the white house down to the lowest official there was an indis-
position to exult over the defeat of their old-time political associates and the members of the president's official family, one and all, preserved a dignified silence in the hope of thus making easier the task set for them in future
of healing the breaches in the party.

McKinley Has Nothing to Say.

Canton, Ohio, Nov. 5.—Major Mc-Kinley Wednesday spent a day of comparative quiet at his home seeking to recuperate from the strain of the last few days. From the porch he reviewed several uniformed clubs and delegations from neighboring towns, but made no speeches. He has not said a word on the election, by speech, telephone or otherwise, and appears determined to reserve his judgment and his views until every vestige of doubt on the result is removed.

Big Fire at Carbon, Ind.

Brazil, Ind., Nov. 6.—Fire at Carbon
Wednesday destroyed W. R. Risher &
Co.'s large storeroom, filled with a general stock of merchandise. The opera-house block, owned by James Kerr and occupied on the first floor by the Eureka Coal company's general mercantile stock and William Baxter's saloon, and two dwelling houses were burned. The total loss will exceed $100,000. The amount of insurance is not obtainable. The fire was caused by a lamp explosion in the basement
of Risher & Co.'s store.

Comes to Life in a Morgue.

New York, Nov. 5.—A dispatch to the wife of Edward Bodenbainer, a commercial traveler of this city, says that he came to life in an undertaker's room
at Topeka, Kas., after his body had been prepared for burial. Mrs. Boden-bainer received a telegram from St.
Joseph, Mo., Tuesday saying that Bod-
enbainer had died while on a train en route for Topeka. Yesterday she learned that he was still alive.

Brutal Murder at Joliet, Ill.

Joliet, Ill., Nov. 5.—Constable Frank
DeLong, a highly honored old citizen,
was killed Wednesday in an attempt to serve a warrant upon Lyman Hall, charged with disorderly conduct. He was met at the door by Hall and shot
three times. Hall went to the police station to give himself up. The police sent him at once to jail, fearing he would be lynched.

Treasury Loses Some Gold.

Washington, Nov. 6.—The treasury
Wednesday lost $47,000 in gold coin and $44,700 in jeweler's bars. The net gain
at New York, however, was $2,382,300.
This leaves the reserve $117,587,898.
Large gains in gold are indicated at Boston and other points.

Plow Works Resume.

Moline, Ill., Nov. 5.—The Moline Plow
company has announced that works
which have been idle for five months

ALL KINDS OF BETS ARE MADE AND LOST

F. C. LLOYD TO GO TO THE INAUGURATION.

Local Merchant Will Have To Stand the Expense—H. S. Sloan To Get Over a Million Cigars—The Beloit Vote in Detail—Republican Plurality in the State.

There were election bets and election bets, but E. C. Lloyd's bet, was, perhaps, the most unique.

Mr. Lloyd will attend the inauguration of President McKinley at the expense of a local merchant.

His bills for sleeping, car, railroad fare, meals and even for a new suit of clothes, will be paid by the above mentioned merchant.

H. S. Sloan will get one cigar for every vote of McKinley's popular plurality. Unless the returns undergo wonderful changes a local druggist will have to buy Mr. Sloan over one million ten cent cigars.

Frank L. Stevens won a suit of clothes because of his faith in the belief that Altgeld would be defeated. A well known Third ward lady will lay in bed this winter while "hubby" cooks breakfast and all because Wisconsin gave over 50,000 plurality for McKinley.

A Beloit gold man and a local silverite bet $10 in the waiting room of the St. Paul depot yesterday. The Beloit man said that the banks would now pay out gold to any one and after he had proven the fact the silver man paid the bet—$5 of which was remitted.

PAID OUT $19,240 FOR 461 BICYCLES

WHEELS BOUGHT BY JANESVILLE PEOPLE.

The Dealers and Agents Disposed of Most of Them, Although Some Were Bought Out of the City—Local Men Tell of Their Sales of Wheels.

How many bicycles have been bought in Janesville this year? How much did they cost?

These two questions have been frequently asked, and The Gazette can now answer them.

The cycle riders of Janesville have paid this summer the sum of $19,240 for bicycles of the '96 pattern, local riders having purchased 451 wheels.

In spite of the hard times and the scarcity of money people had to have wheels and the Bower City will likely be classed as a leading "cycle town" among the cities of Wisconsin.

Dealers are of the opinion that the $40 would be a fair average price for the wheels, although the price paid for many of the machines range from $50 to $100. Few riders have purchased wheels below the $40 class, so that the average is a low one.

The dealers say that there has been but little money made on the bicycles from the fact that "cutting prices" has been the rule. The express companies estimate that fifty wheels have been shipped into this city for private individuals.

Figuring on the prices paid for lamps, bells, bicycle suits, and for repairs the "bicycle fund" will doubtless be increased to $20,000.

The local dealers report the following sales in the aggregate:

THIS DAY IN HISTORY.

1491—Hans Sachs, "honest Hans Sachs," the German poet, author of over 6,000 pieces, born; died 1576.

1864—Battle of Inkerman, in the Crimean war, the heaviest engagement in the campaign. Soldiers who fought at Inkerman wonder why the public should pass it over and make so much of Balaklava. W. H. Russell, the London Times correspondent, wrote of Inkerman as "the bloodiest struggle witnessed since war cursed the earth." Conventional modes of fighting were out of place. The battle was a series of dreadful deeds of daring, of sanguinary hand to hand fights, desperate rallies and desperate assaults. Bayonets were freely used, and desperate encounters were often decided by that weapon alone. The minute rifle first came into play there in the hands of the English and proved terribly destructive.

1891—Political revolution in Brazil: President Fonseca, successor to Dom Pedro, dissolved the Brazilian congress and made himself dictator.

1886—William Libby, an old time merchant, at one time partner with A. T. Stewart, died in New York city.

WHAT IT MEANS.

It seems to be the opinion of the masses that they are also the classes.

They prefer not to be listed with flag burners, egg-throwers and sectional agitators.

They want it understood that they pay their honest debts and are against the gospel of hate and jealousy.

They want it understood that what they earn and lay aside they expect to enjoy.

More than all else they have shown that honesty is a factor to be reckoned with in American politics.

For the first time in many years a national party has questioned this.

For the first time a presidential candidate has based his campaign on a supposed desire of the people to avoid the payment of their debts.

The nature of the arguments used, quite as much as the nature of the issue presented made this election more critical than any since Lincoln's time. The question the world has asked for one hundred years—can the people be trusted to exercise sovereign power?—was to have an answer. It was answered unflinchingly; answered decisively; answered right. The trustworthiness of the popular will was proven, and Americanism and honesty were again stamped as synonymous.

THE YOUNGEST METAL.

Aluminum Was First Produced Near Pittsburgh in 1889.

Aluminum, the youngest of all metals, is rapidly coming into general use. It was discovered by Frederick Wohler, a German professor, in 1827, but to St. Clair Deville, a Frenchman, belongs the honor of being the founder of the aluminum industry. The first article made of this metal was in compliment to Louis Napoleon, who had helped Deville—a baby rattle for the infant prince imperial. In 1855, when the first aluminum company was formed, the cost of a pound of the metal was about $200. In 1889 Charles M. Hall, of Oberlin, O., patented an electrolytic process. He, with a few of his friends, then started a small plant on the bank of the Allegheny river, eighteen miles above Pittsburgh. The first year the company produced 75 pounds of aluminum a day, which was sold for $4.50 a pound. In 1895 a company built a large plant at Niagara Falls, and this year it is building additional works. When these are completed they will have an output of 11,000 pounds daily. This will put the United States in front as the largest aluminum-producing country in the world. Aluminum weight is about a third that of iron, and only steel of the highest quality and the best aluminum bronze will give a greater strength for a given weight than aluminum. It stands high in the list of malleable metals, and can be drawn into wire 1-250 of an inch in thickness. It is an excellent conductor of electricity, and would, at 20 cents a pound, take the place of copper for all electrical purposes. In shipbuilding, where lightness is demanded, aluminum meets every requirement. Corrosion and galvanic action are easily overcome by properly painting the part subject to the action of the water and by using aluminum rivets. France and Germany have several torpedo boats made of aluminum, and pleasure yachts every year are being constructed of this metal.—New York Sun.

GENIUS IN KNICKERBOCKERS.

An Incident Showing How a Small Boy Recovered a Lost Coin.

He had deposited his ticket in the box on the downtown station of the 6th avenue "L" road at 50th street early this morning, and was counting his change in a search for plugged dimes and nickels, says the New York Mail and Express. A quarter fell from his hands and rolled along the platform until it lodged under the raised steps which form the edge of the platform. There it lay in plain view, but as unobtainable as the golden apples of Hesperides. The loser was the picture of rage.

"I don't care about the blame coin," he wailed. "I've got 'em to burn; but it just makes me mad to see that quarter there, and I can't get it."

"Gimme a dime, mister," said a messenger boy, "and 5 cents for expenses, and I'll get yer mun."

The man regarded the boy for a moment and said: "Go ahead."

He returned in a few minutes with his form working convulsively. In his hand he had a piece of scantling. The crowd watched him curiously. From his mouth the boy took a well-masticated wad of chewing gum. He stuck this on the end of the scantling, and, thrusting the stick through the narrow space, pressed the soft and sticky gum firmly on the lost coin. Then he deftly drew it out and presented the money to its owner.

"Keep the whole outfit," said the man. "Boy, you're a peach. We live and learn," and he boarded a train, his face wreathed in smiles. The face of the boy was similarly decorated.

Thieves' Candle Superstition.

Some criminals, it would appear, entertain the horrible creed that the use of a candle made of a murdered man's fat will protect them from discovery during their depredations. Actuated by this hideous and insane superstition it is averred that two burglars in the district of Ostrogojsk (Voroneje government) recently murdered a handsome, stalwart young fellow-villager of 18 for the sake of his tallow. The story goes on to state that, having butchered their victim, these fiends ripped open the body and tore out the epiploon, which they put up in a tin box and carried home. Next came the melting down process. The men's strange operations aroused the suspicions of their landlady—the more so as ugly rumors of the poor fellow's disappearance began to circulate—and she gave information in the proper quarter. In conclusion, it is mentioned that the tin box and its contents have been handed to two well-known professors for examination.

The above circumstantial account is from the St. Petersburg Novosti and Bourse Gazette, which refers to the Kharkoff government Gazette as its authority. True or not true, the charge is noteworthy as bearing upon a very ghoulish piece of thieves' folk-lore or black art.—Notes and Queries.

This Is Obviously True.

An Atchison woman who lives over a grocery store recently walked four blocks to borrow a cup of sugar from a neighbor.

Willie Wiff came from the country to town one day. Among other things, he saw a street-sprinkling wagon, on the back end of which was an advertisement in big letters: "Smith's Soda Water."

"My!" he exclaimed, "soda water must be plentiful here, when they can water the streets with it."

God made other men to show us what is in us.

THE PATRIOTS THREATEN HAVANA.

Important Developments in the Struggle May Be Looked For.

Havana, Nov. 5.—According to insurgent statements the frequency of engagements recently fought in the province of Havana are evidence of the truth of the report that Antonio Maceo and Maximo Gomez are directing the forces under their command upon the city of Havana itself, with the intention of laying siege to it. They still continue to insist that Maceo passed the military line after having bombarded Artimesa as a feint, and that important events are likely to happen shortly. As a matter of fact, the Spanish commanders admit that they are not aware of the whereabouts of Maceo.

Another feature of the situation which is causing the insurgents considerable satisfaction is the visit of the United States consul general, Fitzhugh Lee, to the United States. They insist, in spite of all official denials, that the relations between the government at Washington and the Cuban authorities are of a decidedly strained nature, and they further claim that the interviews which are expected to take place shortly between Consul General Fitzhugh Lee, President Cleveland and Secretary Olney will lead to important new departures in policy upon the part of the United States government. The more hot-headed of the insurgents maintain that the intervention of the United States in Cuba is certain before long.

Little accurate news can be cabled from here unless by using a secret code which baffles the Spanish officials, or by transmitting the messages by way of Key West.

GOLD VAULT KEYS TURNED BY VOTES

BANKS WILL PAY OUT THE YELLOW METAL.

Say There is Now No Reason Why They Should Keep It—Local Industries Feel the Effects of the Victory—Merchants Say Buyers Have Been "Holding Off."

Gold is no longer a prisoner. The people of the United States, at the ballot box assembled, have unlocked the doors of the bank vaults, with their votes.

Now that the financial policy of the country has been settled, and there will be no change in standards, there is no reason why the gold should be held, for the money, gold, silver and paper—is all as "good as gold" and interchangeable. One dollar is as good as another, and no kind of money is at a premium, or will now go to a premium.

"Are you paying out gold now?" a local banker was asked today.

"Yes," was the reply, "there is now no reason for keeping it. If free silver had won, gold would have gone to a premium, and we would have made a profit on what gold we had. Now that the matter is settled, and no changes will be made, we will pay out gold the same as we do silver or paper."

Other bankers said the same thing. If you want gold, take any lawful money to the bank where you do business, and you can get the yellow coins in exchange.

Business Is Reviving.

Janesville industries now begin to feel the effects of the settling of financial and tariff policies of the country, and "confidence" is rapidly being restored. Manufacturers and merchants can now base calculations for the future on something tangible, and plans for the year will be made. The embargo of uncertainty has been lifted.

The Woolen Mill Company yesterday secured the largest order of the year, by telegraph, the order having been withheld, pending the announcement of the result of the election.

The Janesville Machine Company has put additional men to work, and will be running on a larger scale than ever in a short time. This concern had not shut down before in its history, but the directors decided to close until the financial policy was settled, and they could figure on the future.

In all probability the looms in the cotton factories will soon be buzzing again, a directors' meeting having been called as soon as the triumph of honest money was announced.

Many Plans Made.
A. C. Kent's corn planter works, which have been closed for some weeks past will start up at once.

A local leaf tobacco dealer received the following dispatch yesterday: "Election returns satisfactory. Send the one hundred cases as per agreement."

Herman Buchholz said this morning that the Janesville Carriage Works could start up at full capacity within a few days. This plant had not been shut down before in forty years.

A man made a purchase in a local store yesterday morning, and paid for the clothes he bought with a $20 bill.

"I have been keeping that money to live on this winter," he said, "as I have not had steady work. Now that McKinley is elected, I am confident that I can get along all right, so I have bought a suit for myself and one for my boy. We were going without the clothing, so as to have the money to buy food, etc., with."

"You have no idea what a difference the election has made," said a local merchant today. "People come in here and say 'I want to buy such-and-such a thing. I have been waiting until after election before I spent money for anything I did not absolutely need, but now that the thing is settled, I am going to buy. I look for a great revival in business in the next few months.'"

SNOW FELL IN LOADS WHILE FOLKS SLEPT

A FOURTEEN-INCH COATING WAS GIVEN EVERYTHING.

Storm Began About Midnight, and Lasted Until 10:30 This Morning—All Trains Were Late in Consequence—Electric Wires Break Under the Load of the Beautiful.

Col. Boreas, superintendent of the weather foundry, must have gotten hold of the wrong faucet while working the machinery, last night—or else he wanted to show the people that he was as good a man in the snowslide line, as the American voter had demonstrated he was in the landslide business.

Between midnight and 10:30 o'clock this morning, fourteen inches of snow was precipitated upon this law-abiding and peaceful town.

When folks who went to bed early last night got up this morning, they could hardly believe their eyes. Side-walks and roofs had been completely covered, and great patches of the beautiful were piled on the branches of the trees. At 10 o'clock last night there was no indication of snow, but at 10 o'clock this morning, there was no indication of its letting up. Half an hour later the fall ceased, and the snow began to melt. The hardware stores sold many a snow shovel, and the rasp thereof was soon heard on all sides.

Trains All Late

People who had to "break paths" this morning, were not much elated at the prospect, when they started out, but their cares were trivial beside those of the railroad men. The snow was damp and heavy and it "packed" into a solid mass when weight was applied. Consequently it was just the kind of snow to make the railroad men swear. All the morning trains were delayed half an hour or more, and some of them came in with snow plows attached. At noon the railroads were having as much trouble as they had had at first, for when the snow began to melt it got hard and pasty.

The street cars were blocked all the morning. The big scraper was finally brought out, and the engine started at 1 o'clock.

Electric wires suffered severely, the heavy snow causing them to break under the load.

The storm was heaviest about Janesville. At Milwaukee, Madison, Monroe and points south of the city, the fall was much lighter.

THE BIG CELEBRATION POSTPONED

Snow Storm Interferes With Sound Money Ratification Plans.

The big sound money ratification demonstration which had been planned for Friday night, has been postponed until early next week because of the snow storm. The demonstration will be a big one and plans are made to make it larger than ever, now that there is more time to perfect arrangements. The money is being raised by Frank C. Haselton, Fred S. Sheldon, Henry M. Edwards and Charles S. Putnam and they are making a thorough canvass. The money will be spent for fireworks, etc., and attraction in the parade.

CUPIDS BONDS ARE FORGED.

Carr—Joyce.

The marriage of Miss Nellie Joyce to F. Carr was celebrated in Chicago yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock, the ceremony being witnessed by the relatives and a few invited friends. The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Mary Joyce, of this city. She grew to womanhood in this city, where she has numerous friends.

The groom, although a resident of this city for but a few months, is a young man who has made friends without number. He now holds the position as day clerk at the Hotel Myers and is not only a favorite with his employers, but the general public as well.

Mr. and Mrs. Carr are now on their wedding tour and upon their return, will take up their residence at the Hotel Myers.

Imman—Gately.

Miss Anna Esther Gately of this city, and John Edward Imman of the town of Bradford, were married at St. Mary's parsonage at 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon. After the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents on Milwaukee avenue, and a wedding feast was served. The bride is the second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Gately, and is a most estimable young lady, while the groom is a popular young farmer residing in the town of Bradford. Mr. and Mrs. Imman left for Chicago on a brief wedding trip last evening, and on their return will remain for a short time at their home, after which they will take an extended trip through the east.

Russell—Churchill.

Last evening at 8 o'clock, at the home of the Rev. Dr. M. G. Dodge, the words were spoken that united in marriage Miss Nellie May Churchill to John R. Russell. Both the bride and groom reside in the city, where they have a host of friends. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Churchill, and is a young lady whom all love and respect. The groom is a young man who has friends without number. He is in the employ of D. Ryan. Mr. and Mrs. Russell will make their home at 229 South Main street.

IN the rush incident to election, an error was overlooked. The Gazette yesterday announced that Dr. Salovar, the German physician, who had opened an office in the Burdick flats, was a "musician" instead of a "physician."

M'KEE GOES TO JAIL FOR THIRTY DAYS

PLEADS GUILTY IN THE MUNICIPAL COURT.

Admits Stealing a Gold Watch Worth $65, and Will Work Out a $15 Fine—Shot "Change Men" at Work—Another Bogus Check Now Turns Up.

Frank McKee, who was arrested for relieving Edward E. Fallon of his $65 gold watch and chain, appeared in the municipal court this morning and pleaded guilty to the charge. The court thereupon convicted him, and imposed a fine of $15 and costs or 30 days in jail. Mr. McKee accepting the latter alternative. John V. Norcross appeared for the defendant while District Attorney Jackson prosecuted the case.

McKee, it will be remembered, also had F. C. Burpee's bicycle, and other goods said to be stolen, when he was arrested.

Short Change Men Work

Two clever "short change men" tried to victimize Janesville people last evening and all efforts of the police failed to locate them. Late yesterday afternoon complaints were made that two young men, both strangers, had visited a number of the local stores and asked to get $5 and $10 bills changed. In one instance they were successful. At the Bazaar store on South Main street they succeeded in getting $5 in change for a one dollar bill. The police think the men were experts, and that they got out of town on the first train after working their scheme.

Another Worthless Check.

N. C. Schellenger, who recently passed a bogus check on Frank Sadler, also gave James Gardner a bogus paper drawn for a small amount. Officials of the Bower City Bank say Schellenger was a stranger in the city. The only deposit that he made at that bank was a five-dollar one, and that was done, it was thought, merely for the securing of blank checks and a bank book, with which to carry out his work.

EVANSVILLE COUPLE DIVORCED.

Mrs. Hattie Searles Is Given a Decree By Judge Bennett.

Mrs. Hattie Searles was granted a divorce by Judge Bennett, from her husband, A. C. Searles, on the grounds of desertion. Both parties are well known in Evansville, where they have resided for some time. Mr. Searles is employed by the Evansville Mercantile association. The couple were married in April, 1888 and in the testimony showed that Mrs. Searles was well treated and that the couple's life seemed to be one of pleasure, but that Mrs. Searles was tired of living at Evansville. She at once left to live with her sister near Elroy.

DR. JAMES MILLS' residence was decorated today in honor of William McKinley.

LOON.

Lone dweller by the lonely lake,
Remote among our northern hills,
Round wooded shores thy loud cries wake
The sleeping echoes, rudely break
The singing of the rills.

Thou hast the storm a welcome guest
At thy home by the water's edge.
The waves may dash about thy breast;
May, playful, lift and rock thy nest
Built on the reedy sedge.

Thou art a ruler in good right,
Strong master of all winds that blow.
Thy wings outstrip the stormclouds quite.
Thy swimming is the swallow's flight
Seen in the depths below.

Thou sittest with a sovereign grace
The broken waters of the pond,
And, quicker than the eye can trace,
Hast shifted to another place
A good half mile beyond.

Ah! said those loud demoniac cries
Borne on the startled listening air,
As if from nether world did rise
In agony to earth and skies
An outburst of despair.

Proud is thy mate as side by side
Ye cleave the air with whizzing wing;
Your brood that patiently abide
At home, receive your forms desecrated,
These sad notes heard to ring.

—Isaac B. Choate in New York Home Journal.

HEPZIBAH.

The room had been still for a long while. Only the even, monotonous splash of the outgoing tide and now and again a restless, unconscious movement of the dying woman in the bed disturbed the stillness of the night.

In the big armchair by the bedside, in the light of the lamp, sat a gaunt woman, angular and haggard, with thin compressed lips, yellow skin, light eyes and dead straw colored hair drawn tightly back from her forehead and twisted into an uncompromising knot at the nape of the neck.

She had watched for many weary nights now beside that bed, but still her eyes were wide and watchful and her attitude alert. She counted each fluttering breath of the girlish form beneath the sheet, and she noted each quiver of the unconscious eyelids.

The night wore on, and with the coming of the gray dawn a wind arose, moaning round the little house and shaking the fastenings of the sickroom window.

The dying woman stirred, and she moaned, then slowly opened her eyes—great, sad blue eyes—like a child in trouble. She fixed them upon the watcher in the chair with a pathetic look of entreaty.

"Hepzibah!" The pale lips just formed the whispered word.

The gaunt woman rose hastily and bent over her.

"Hepzibah—you have been very good to me."

A painful pause; breathing was so difficult.

"Am I dying now?"

The woman bending over her made no response, but tears gathered in her hard eyes, and her thin lips quivered.

"No, you need not tell me. I know I am. I can feel it. Hepzibah, you have been so good to me. There is something that you must do—for me—when I am gone."

Hepzibah bent over her, waiting, watchful.

The dying girl raised one feeble hand, pointing toward the old bureau in the corner of the room.

"There—in the third drawer on the left—a packet—letters. Will you bring them to me?"

Hepzibah brought over to her a little bundle, tied round with faded pink ribbon.

The young woman fingered it lovingly, wistfully.

"They are Jack's letters—my Jack, Hepzibah! When I am gone, I trust you to burn them for me. Tom must never know. Poor Tom—he has been a good husband to me, but I loved Jack first—only he was so wild. I did not know that he cared for me. And—he went away in a temper—and I married Tom. But when Jack came back from sea last time, I—I found out how much he cared. It was terrible—and I loved him so! Then he was drowned—my poor Jack!"

A weak sob choked her broken whispering.

"Promise me you will burn them, Hepzibah, for Tom's sake."

"Dear, I promise."

"You have been so good to me, so patient with me. When I am gone, you will be good to poor Tom."

A dull red flush overspread the elder woman's face. She turned her head into the shadow.

"I will do what I can, Nellie," she responded in a smothered voice.

"Call Tom now. I feel I am going soon—going. I feel so cold—so numb."

Hepzibah hastily left the room. She was back in an instant, followed by a stout, ruddy faced man of about 50. He stepped softly to the bed and took the dying woman's hand in his big grip.

"Come, Nell, my lass, you must bear a brave heart. We'll have you better soon." There were tears in his cheery voice.

Nellie looked at him with a faint smile. She raised the big red hand in which her own was imprisoned to her lips. Then, exhausted by her recent efforts, she closed her eyes and seemed to sleep. Presently she started violently. Her eyes opened in terror.

"The letters! You will burn them, Hepzibah!"

Tom turned to Hepzibah wondering. He thought the delirium had returned.

"What letters does she mean?"

Hepzibah was silent. She averted her eyes. Then:

"She means her dead mother's letters," she replied in a steady voice.

The dying woman looked her gratitude for the saving lie. There was a silence again and a solemn sense of waiting in the room. At last Nellie made a faint movement with her hand.

The tide was nearly out. Beyond the sun was rising in golden splendor, making a glittering pathway across the waves, straight to the cottage window.

The night wind had ceased to blow.

warm breeze. It came wafted in, mingling with the salt of the sea—with the scent of the flowers in the little garden below.

Nellie's big, sad eyes took in all the beauty of the morning; then they gently closed.

So Nellie Thurgood, Tom Thurgood's young wife, died and was buried in the little churchyard by the sea, and the tide came in and the tide went out through the long summer days and nights and peaceful order reigned in the little cottage, for Hepzibah was a notable housekeeper, and Tom was grateful to her in all, impersonal way. His heart was buried in a newly made grave on the hillside, and nothing seemed real to him but that.

Hepzibah watched him from under her white eyelashes and kept silent, but his pipe was always ready for him when he came indoors and his favorite food simmered on the hob.

Hepzibah's hair grew brighter as the days went on. Her cheeks had a comely blush. She began to take thought of her dress. She bought a blue gingham gown in the village and a muslin handkerchief for her neck. Her voice took a softer note. She began to sing about her work.

But Tom would sit in the churchyard through the long summer twilights, and when he came in to his supper his feet dragged wearily, and his eyes were dull with misery.

"You should not grieve so," said Hepzibah softly one night after supper. She was knitting in the firelight. Her head was bent over her work.

Tom woke as from a dream. He looked at her with unseeing eyes.

"Ah, it's well to say that to a man whose heart is breaking."

His voice grew husky. He turned away his head to the fire.

"But you shouldn't grieve as one without hope. Time must soften things a bit. You have your life before you."

Tom laughed a short, bitter laugh not good to hear.

"She was all I had—my Nellie—the apple of my eye. What good's life to me now? Such pretty ways she had, too!" he went on musingly. "Such loving, tender ways!"

Hepzibah's needles flashed in the firelight.

"There are other women in the world as fond as Nellie," she said softly, with her eyes on her knitting.

There was a long silence in the room. The fire flickered. A cinder fell on the hearth. Hepzibah could hear her heart throbs. She slowly lifted her eyes to the man's face.

He was not looking at her at all, but at a china shepherdess upon the little table against the wall. His eyes were troubled. He was trying to remember.

"My Nellie did not keep that on there. No, it was on the mantelpiece here that she had it."

He brought the ornament over, dusting it with his handkerchief.

"We must keep the things as she left them, Hepzibah," he said. But Hepzibah had slipped out of the door into the summer darkness.

She rested her arms on the little gate and stood looking far out to sea. Her face shone white and ghostly in the dimness. She shivered in the warm air.

"You dead woman—you Nellie," she whispered tensely, "why will you not give him up to me? You have your Jack. You do not want him—and I—oh, my God!"

A great tearless sob choked her. The shimmering waves mocked her. Her face hardened.

"Why should I not tell him? I shall do you no harm. How can one hurt the dead? You are asleep in the churchyard, and I love him—I tell you I love him!"

The man was sitting, smoking moodily, gazing into the glowing fire when Hepzibah glided in and stood behind his chair.

"Tom, I can't bear that you should grieve so. She wasn't worthy of a love like yours."

"Hepzibah!"

"I have thought you ought to know," she faltered, "because I can't bear to see you spoiling your life for love of her—her who did not love you at all, but Jack."

"Woman, what do you mean? What lies are you telling me?"

"It's true. Don't you remember her calling out about the letters the night she died? She gave me a packet—Jack's letters to her."

"My God! Give them to me!"

"You must not mind so much, Tom."

"The letters!"

Hepzibah laid the packet on the table and crept away up the staircase to her room.

The still hours passed by. Night waned, but Hepzibah, wild eyed and numb, crouched by the bed, straining her ears for any sound from below.

An hour before dawn came the sound of a chair scraping on the flagged floor. Drawers were opened and shut. His footsteps echoed to and fro; then silence and the scratching of a pen.

It grew unbearable. Disheveled, wan, fearful, she crept down the stairs and peered in.

Tom Thurgood sat at the table writing by the dim daylight. He had on his rough pilot's coat. A bundle tied in a red handkerchief rested beside him.

Hepzibah's broken cry aroused him. He rose and came toward her.

"I'm going away—back to sea again," he said gravely. "You're welcome to the cottage and the bits of furniture. There's no home for me now—the place would kill me. Get back to bed, woman. Goodbye; there, go!"

He turned back to his writing, and the room was quiet again. Presently he threw down his pen and passed his inky fingers through his hair.

"The wind moans terrible tonight," he said.

It was Hepzibah above crying for her lost paradise.—Chapman's Magazine.

BUTTON-STRINGS.

Some That Are of Great Historic Interest Not Merely Playthings.

It may surprise the boys and girls who consider the making of a button-string as a suitable amusement for the babes of the family only to hear that many "grown-ups" find pleasure in the same thing. Of course a "grown-up's" button-string is apt to be slightly different from that of the youngsters. Usually it is spoken of as a collection of rare or curious buttons.

The most interesting button-strings are those composed of historic buttons, buttons that have fastened the garments of historic personages.

A New York lady has a very valuable button-string. One of the buttons once adorned the coat of the "Little Corporal" after he became the great Emperor Napoleon. It has his profile clear-cut on its surface. A modest little gray cloth button loses its insignificance when its owner tells you that it was one of a row that fastened a walking-gown of Queen Victoria's. An artistic button in pearls and priceless lace once adorned a ball-dress worn by the unfortunate Empress Eugenie.

More interesting than any of these representations of royalty is a pathetic, shabby button, which, could it talk, would tell tales of hunger and cold, long, weary, marches, feet that bled at Valley Forge, voices that cheered and eyes that wept, all for liberty. It is a button cut from an old army coat of George Washington's.

As a companion to this American button there is a little, rusty black disk that traveled the world over with Benjamin Franklin. Almost every great soldier of modern times has added a button to the collection. Florence Nightingale, of Crimean fame, to whom the world owes its trained nurses, is represented by a pink cambric-covered button. Thackeray once wore a suit of gray broadcloth, evidently, for a mould covered with that material is one of the prizes of the collection. A similar button, covered with brown broadcloth, was once worn by Dickens.

A button-string that would illustrate the many stages in the evolution of the button would be very interesting. Everything under the sun almost has been used in the manufacture of buttons. There have been buttons of gold and silver, buttons of iron and bone, and recently a process has been discovered by which potatoes may be solidified into very handsome buttons. There are pearl buttons, wooden buttons and buttons of vegetable ivory. Horn buttons belong almost to a past age. The few that are now placed on the market come from France. Yet it is scarcely half a century since M. Bosset, of Paris, introduced buttons made from hoofs. They became very popular and made a French saying which runs, "Set a button at right angles with a woman's eye and she'll make you a millionaire." Horn buttons made many millionaires before they went out of fashion.

Queen Elizabeth must have been very fond of buttons, as she was of all sorts of decorations. It was during her reign that men's and women's clothes first blossomed out in the most gorgeous display of buttons of all sizes and shapes. Curiously enough, buttons seem to have been ornamental before they were useful. It was in Elizabeth's time that button-making developed into a regular trade. Afterwards Birmingham became a great button-making centre. A great many buttons are made in the United States. Vulcanite buttons are exclusively an American product.

Beaux to Hire.

Here is an idea for the summer girl who is sojourning far from the haunts of man:

A curious custom prevails in some provinces of Holland during the carnival season. Young women of the working class, especially domestic servants, who have no sweetheart of their own, are in the habit of hiring "followers" for their Sunday out or for the whole of the carnival period. These lovers are by no means to be had very cheap. Often two or three maids will club together and share a lover among them if he comes too expensive for one girl.

This temporary lover has many duties to perform. Of course, he must be good looking and well dressed and an efficient and indefatigable dancer, "fit to be seen with anywhere"; he must, likewise, possess good conversational powers. Besides receiving a variety of valuable presents from his "girls," he is "found" by them in victuals and drink. If a young woman can afford to engage a "swain" all for herself, so much the better, for the hiring often develops into a real lover and ultimately into a husband. It can thus be said that in some districts of Holland the girls do all the wooing.—Exchange.

Little Japanese Lady.

Another daughter has been born to the Emperor of Japan, and he names her Yuki-Ko, which means "Beautiful Leaf." The Emperor already has a number of daughters and is anxious to have a son. Only two sons have been born to him, although he is blessed with nine wives. The first son died in infancy and the present Prince Imperial is in such poor health that he is not expected to live long enough to reach the throne.

Couldn't Be Particular.

"Look here, waiter! These eggs are not cooked properly."

"I know it, sir; but you said they were for your wife, and I knew if the lady was your wife she couldn't be very particular."

CONCERNING CLOTHES.

Where to Save and Where to Be Lavish in Buying.

The question of how small an allowance of money will keep a woman well dressed is one of considerable importance to a great number of persons. To be well dressed, fortunately, does not imply dressing regardless of cost. It means that one's clothing must be fairly fashionable in cut, fairly good in quality, exceedingly good in fit and appropriate to the person and the occasion. It is, of course, impossible for a woman to dress well on nothing or next to nothing a year, even when she possesses good taste, deftness of hand and ingenuity—three attributes of much importance where the wardrobe is concerned. But given these, a very moderate yearly sum will suffice to keep her presentably and pleasingly clothed.

There is a great deal in knowing where to save and where to be lavish in buying. Inferior shoes, for instance, are always bad bargains, for they not only look common, but give out quickly, while good ones are far more durable, and even when much worn retain the suggestion of elegance. Cheap silks are also in reality an extravagance, for they are practically worth nothing. On the other hand, there are infinite varieties of inexpensive muslins and nainsooks that are capable of being made into charming gowns, and serges, wool crepons and cashmeres of good quality are not costly, are serviceable and are always more or less favored by fashion.

If only a certain amount of money can be afforded for a costume, it is better to put the expense into the making than into the material and trimmings. A simple gown made by a dressmaker who understands her business is more effective than an elaborate one that is awkwardly put together and does not fit well.

Today's cut shows a costume of dark blue faille. The skirt is ornamented with bands of jet, one in the middle of the tablier, two on each side and four short ones at the top. The stretched bodice is laid in plaits at the waist in front and at the back, and there is a folded belt of blue velvet. The bolero of black passementerie embroidered with gold and black is bordered with a bias band of blue velvet. The faille sleeves are trimmed with jet bands. A ruche of velvet finishes the wrists and the high collar. The black velvet hat is trimmed with blue velvet and black plumes.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

THE BOLERO.

Chic and Becoming—May Be Varied to Suit the Occasion.

Fashion has a way of adopting some particular article or form of apparel and then devoting her entire attention to it, ringing in every possible change upon the original theme without entirely abandoning it. Fashion is too fickle to hold to one particular form of her favorite. She must have change even when most constant.

There is, as a novelty in this nineteenth century. All shapes and materials have been seen many times, and whatever seems to be new is really old—so old that it has been forgotten, which is practically the same as being new. All fresh fashions are merely revivals of what is gone. If Rider Haggard's She had lived in the world instead of in his imagination, how many times would the mode have compelled her to reassume a garb which had been cast aside as out of date and useless?

Now, it is the bolero again, which may be called by a dozen different Spanish or oriental names. It is a coquettish garment, charming on a pretty figure and very effective in proportion to its simplicity. No home is complete without it, as the advertisements say at present, and it is varied in every possible way to meet all exigencies of form, purse and occasion. It is short, comparatively long, square, round, open, closed, plain, draped, of rich materials or of ordinary ones.

The illustration shows a walking costume of heavy velvet. The skirt is laid in large plaits, and there are two bands of chinchilla fur on each side of the tablier. The square bolero has double fronts and a tall, flaring collar and is bordered with chinchilla. The close sleeves have a band of chinchilla at the wrist and a triple edged with chinchilla. The wide belt of velvet is plain. The chemise is of pink silk laid in horizontal plaits and has a high, plain collar of heavy velvet.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

INDIVIDUALITY OF WOMEN.

One of the Most Common Errors of the So-Called "Woman Question."

In dealing with the so-called "woman question," one of the most usual errors which is encountered on both sides is the persistent habit of regarding women not as individuals but as a class apart who may be depended upon to think and act alike on all questions, says the New York Recorder. The very phrases, "woman question," "women's sphere," show how cunningly this fallacy creeps into all discussions. One never hears of a man's question. It is simply taken for granted that a man does what he chooses in the world, conditioned simply by natural not artificial limitations. Were women treated as individuals and not en masse their position would be the same. And, what is of the greatest importance, the natural differences of sex would show themselves as they have never yet had a chance of doing. No one will seriously attempt to deny that the material function constitutes a vast difference between men and women, but exactly in what this difference consists and how far it goes has never yet been ascertained, because the path of women has been the most part marked out for them and they have had no choice but to walk therein or forfeit many things which women, and men also, hold dear. Whenever a woman, driven by pressure of her genius, has released herself from the trammels which surround her and insisted upon living her own life, it is usually asserted either that she is a cold-blooded creature, without natural affections, or that no woman can really excel in what are known as masculine pursuits, because her craving to be loved is sure to dominate her. Sonya Kovalevsky, the gifted and fiery Russian mathematician, is often held up as an example of the latter and true it is that her head and heart strove together in often passionate strife. But this was not because she was a woman. Keats and Chopin undoubtedly died earlier because of their love affairs; at least their deaths are said to have been hastened thereby, and no woman could do more than die for love; yet it is not asserted that men should not be geniuses because they are prone to fall in love.

It is not within the province of this article to deal with the undoubted natural limitations of the women who choose marriage and motherhood; it is merely intended to maintain the right of every individual to select his or her career at will and to assert that it is no more the duty of every woman to choose marriage and motherhood than it is that of every man to choose marriage and fatherhood. Once chosen, the duty of the mother to devote herself to her children is clear, because that is a duty which cannot be filled by a man. So far nature has clearly indicated the path of each sex. Beyond that let no man dare to place fetters on the individual soul or arrogate to himself the functions of deity and say: "Thus far and no farther."

A Case of Mild Envy.

"I like to see a large man," said Fellaire—formerly Rusty Rufus—regarding with interest the athletic vagabond who had stopped him on the street to ask for a dime. "I like to see a big, husky man, even if he isn't worth enough powder to blow him up. For instance, I wish I had your six-foot frame, I wish I had a foot as big as yours."

"Do ye?" said the gratified hobo. "Yes," pleasantly rejoined Fellaire. "If I had I would kick you all over town, you greasy, slop-fed, hulking scoundrel! You've hung about this town till everybody knows you. If you had a particle of pride in your calling you'd be half way to San Francisco by this time and living on the fat of the land. Here's half a dollar, and if you're not out of town in two hours I'll turn you over to the police as a nuisance. Light out."—Chicago Tribune.

Gigantic Extinct Bird.

By the falling of an overhanging cliff near Hastings, England, an interesting slab of stone was exposed. It bears on its surface the clear impression of the foot of some gigantic extinct bird having three toes. Each toe mark is nine and a half inches long and shows that the original of the imprint had claws two inches in length. The ball of the foot, where the three toes should meet as a center, does not appear, indicating that that portion of the foot did not reach the ground. From the tip of the middle claw to where the spur-toe mark is seen behind is exactly twenty-four inches.—New York Recorder.

Edison's X Ray.

Edison is said to have succeeded in penetrating the entire human frame with the X rays, so that a physician can see every organ in the body at a glance and diagnose a case of disease with his eye. The "wizard" places his cathode light behind the patient and a fluorescent screen made of tungstate of calcium on the other side. Looking through the screen one sees the interior of the body, skeleton and all, clearly revealed.

Population of France.

France's population, according to the census taken last March, is 38,228,969, an increase of 133,819 in five years. The increase is confined to the cities, the rural communes all showing a decrease. The figures show that there has been only one birth in 1,500 inhabitants during this period.

Sentiment and Fact.

Mrs. Languid—"Lovers never kneel to a woman any more. Jack Chatterly—"But why should they? Missing one's self up seems a poor way to gain favor."—Truth.

Healthy, happy children make better men and women of us all. A little care and a little planning before birth is often more important than anything that can be done after.

On the mother's health and strength depend the life and the future of the children. A weak and sickly woman cannot bear strong and healthy children. Most of the weakness of women is utterly incurable. Proper care and proper medicine will cure almost any disorder of the feminine organism. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription has been tested in thirty years of practice. It is healing, soothing, strengthening. It is perfectly natural in its operation and effect.

By its use, thousands of weak women have been made strong and healthy—have been made the mothers of strong and healthy children. Taken during gestation, it makes childbirth easy and almost painless and insures the well being of both mother and child.
